leaflet no.1 - april 1996

(Hum... I'm not really sure where to begin, but top left corner seems as good a place as any, so here goes. Cough.)

OK, this is it - a new record-label, a new name, new bands, and a hideous new away-strip - but don't worry, once you get inside you'll find it's still the same sticky mess it was back in the days when we were - ah, but I promised myself I wouldn't mention that...

So - thank you for buying this TREMBLING BLUE STARS 7", or for browsing through it, or for picking it up off the floor round your mate's house and saying hey, what's this, and why's it got such a thin sleeve? Yeah, I'm sorry about the sleeve - this will hopefully be rectified on future releases, though not on the next one, because that's already been made, and it's as thin as this. Actually, I might as well tell you what that next release is, so: it's "Thinking Of Ways Of Keeping You Warm", debut EP by a brand new band called TOMPOT BLENNY - and, just in case you should want one, I'd better also conjure up some sort of mail-ordering system, so - 7"s are £2 in the U.K., £2.50 to Europe, and £3 to the rest of the world. That includes p&p. Cheques payable to SHINKANSEN RECORDINGS...

Also, if you care for this particular record, you might like to know that there's a whole album of Trembling Blue Stars stuff coming out on May 27th, entitled "Her Handwriting". 14 songs in all... and I'm afraid it's CD only - which wasn't an easy decision to make, but nobody ever really used to buy the vinyl albums when we used to release them on, um, another label we used to run...

Oh, I'm fed up being coy. I shall say this once and once only. We used to be SARAH RECORDS and, yes, there is still the odd thing left for sale, so feel free to write and ask for an up-to-date list. There. Done.

That CD is £9/£10/£11 (U.K./Europe/World) by the way...
